ATTACKS WALL STREET

Calls It Attempt on Part of Financiers to Try to Dictate
Policies

The plan of the development of state industries of the industrial commission will not be modified in any way to meet financial exigencies which bankers, who were called in conference by the state officials say now exist, it is made plain by the industrial commission in its formal reply to the outline of the situation given by the bankers committee.

The commission charges that the proposal to enact new legislation with regard to the industrial commission is "a plain attempt on the part of financial interests presumably Wall street financiers to dictate the political, financial and industrial policies of the state of North Dakota." The reply of the commission, made late Saturday evening, follows:

Bismarck, North Dakota,
January 8, 1921.

To the Honorable Committee of Bankers Appointed by the Bankers and Bankers Association of the State to Confer with the Industrial Commission and Members of the Industrial Commission Relative to the Sale of State Bonds.

The industrial commission has before it for consideration your communication of the 7th inst. reading as follows:

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 7, 1921.
To the Honorable, the Industrial Commission, and the Bank of North Dakota:

The committee of bankers, invited under date of Dec. 30, last, to confer with you with a view of devising some means of selling available securities and bettering the financial situation throughout the state, beg to submit the following:

Through the numerous conferences of the past month, it would appear that the most immediate and important question is the sale of the several issues of the state bonds now being offered.

The bankers of the state have earnestly endeavored to assist in the sale of these bonds, but so far without success. The administration has also been unable to sell them.

The bankers have ascertained the condition under which those bonds could now be sold by them, and with those conditions before them, make the proposition:

The bankers would undertake to sell—

- $3,000,000 of farm loan bonds, as well as the balance of the $10,000,000, as reasonably needed and the market will absorb.
- $2,000,000 of mill and elevator bonds to complete and put in operation the Grand Forks mill and elevator.
- $250,000 of home building bonds.
- $1,000,000 of the Bank of North Dakota bonds.

To bring this about it would be necessary on the part of the administration—

- To limit the operation of the Bank of North Dakota to the administration of state, state institutions, and state industry finances, farm loan and farm loan bonds.
- To procure the enactment of a new depository law for counties, townships, school districts, boards of education, villages and cities, making every going bank a permanent public depository, and fixing the rate of interest by statute, providing also for publicity as an assurance that deposits would be properly distributed.
- To provide some assurance to the public that the so-called farmers' industrial program will be confined to the Grand Forks mill and elevator, to the Bank of North Dakota, and the Bank of North Dakota, and that no state indebtedness other than the above created during the term of the present administration.

To confer with attorneys for bond buyers at an early date, and if any new or amendatory legislation, or order of the industrial commission is required to make the bonds more readily marketable, to see that it is provided.

gentlemen:

We wish to assure the committee that we appreciate the interest it has taken in this matter. The proposition, however, cannot honorably be considered by the commission for the reason that it is a plain attempt on the part of the financial interests presumably Wall Street financiers to dictate the political, financial and industrial policies of the state of North Dakota, and requiring a surrender of the sovereign powers of the state to manage its own affairs, and to permit the dictation and interference with the independence and liberty of the free people of a sovereign state. The time has not yet arrived when any group, no matter how powerful financially, can dictate to this state how to manage its own affairs. Every state in the Union is guaranteed a republican form of government under our constitution. The officers of the state, even though elected by the people, have no authority to surrender its sovereignty. Rights once surrendered are seldom if ever regained. We are satisfied that any group of men that would exact such a surrender and arrogate to themselves the prerogative of making the laws for the people of the state would rule with a tyrannical hand.

The bonds of North Dakota can and will be sold without a surrender of sovereignty of this nature. We are satisfied that your committee did not expect the industrial com-

CARUSO MAY NEVER SING AGAIN

Enrico Caruso, the greatest tenor the world has ever heard, will be very lucky if he is ever able to sing in opera again. That is the opinion of New York physicians who have followed closely his attack of pleurisy and emphysema. The most serious condition that follows pleurisy or pneumonia. The tenor's physician, Dr. Philip Horowitz, says there is reason to believe that Caruso will not be able to return to opera with full possession of his vocal powers.

Dr. Thomas W. Edgar, editor of the Western Medical Review says Caruso probably will never again have his old magnificent lung power. Caruso is shown here with his wife and daughter, Gloria. The sketches illustrate the misfortune which has followed the tenor recently.

$1,100,000 IN
HAIL WARRANTS
CALLED BY STEENStarts to Pay 1919 Vouchers on Losses Over the State

John Steen, state treasurer, has begun to issue vouchers for the unpaid 1919 hail warrants. He expects to continue the call in of warrants until all are paid.

The first county for which were called was Steele county. Others to be called in order are Sully, Towner, Teton, Walsh, Ward, Wells, Williams.

The total amount of warrants for Steele county is over $1,100,000. The total amount of cash paid in taxes to meet the warrants is about $750,000.

When he found the warrants for 1919 had not been called in, Mr. Steen consulted Mr. Catlow to find out if the Bank of North Dakota, custodian of the hail insurance fund, would pay the checks, if issued, Mr. Catlow replied by letter, enclosing a copy of a resolution adopted by bankers state officials committed to the effect that no more money should be drawn out of the Bank of North Dakota than is necessary to be drawn out now.

Mr. Steen said that he did not believe it was his office to use discretionary powers as to paying off the warrants. He said that he felt that he should call in the warrants and if the industrial commission or the Bank of North Dakota did not wish to pay them at this time, a resolution to this effect could be adopted, stating that the resolution adopted with reference to the withdrawal of funds by counties. The checks, he said, would be issued from time to time, not all being sent out at once. The work would be done, he said, without interfering with the regular routine of the office.

None of the 1919 hail warrants have been called in. D. C. Polindexter, state auditor, says that his office feels busy issuing them and he hopes to have all the warrants out in ten days. Because of the fact that only half of the amount of taxes becomes delinquent on March 1 of this year, it is probable that the hail insurance fund will amount to about $500,000.

H. A. Olness, commissioner of insurance, urges that the three cent flat acreage tax be allowed to accumulate or put into a revolving fund, so that in future years the hail losses that are paid off more promptly. The fund, he says, amounts to about $500,000.

MISSOURI RIVER
POWER PROJECT
GIVEN IMPETUS

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 10.—New impetus was given the electric argument by the issuance of the printed Hydro-Electric commission to the legislature Friday. The report covers the activities of the commission since it was authorized and the commissioners appointed in 1919.

One of the first steps taken by the commission, the report shows, was to enter into an agreement with Daniel W. Mead and Chas. V. Seaton, of Madison Wis., April 23, 1919, to make the engineering reconnaissance for a sum not to exceed $30,000.

In response to urgent requests, the report continues, the commission at its meeting held July 17 directed Mr. Mead and Mr. Seaton to make a supplementary report upon the Big Bend site.

The specifications for the locks demanded at this point by the war department were considered unreasonable and a visit was made to the government chief engineer to secure modification. This was accomplished in August of that year. A short time later an agreement was reached with the Fargo Engineering company of Jackson, Mich., to check this report of Mead and Seaton, with the understanding that the check be submitted not later than December 25, and that the cost should not exceed $8,000.

In October, the Mead-Seaton report upon the Big Bend site was submitted together with an extensive analysis. They reported that a development at Big Bend with the same head as at Moberly or Mule Heart—20 feet—would cost for the river plant alone $25,000,000.

On December 20, the Fargo company submitted their report upon the check of the Mead-Seaton figures. This report is not printed but fully conforms as to physical conditions. The Fargo estimate of cost is 6.7 per cent higher than that of Mead and Seaton upon the basis of prices current one year ago.

The report of Mr. Berg and Robinson who visited the Keokuk dam and also various points in Ontario, where the state owns and operates the supply of hydro-electric power is now in the hands of the printer.

LUMBERMEN'S
ACTIVITIES
UNDER FIREFederal Department of Justice's
Investigation Covers
Nation

Washington, Jan. 10.—An intensive investigation into the activities of lumber manufacturers through their national and regional association is being made by the department of justice with the assistance of the federal trade commission. This is disclosed today in a report sent to congress today by the committee in connection with the inquiry of the senate committee on housing and reconstruction.

The report, the commission says, is designed to show the activities of the manufacturers and their attitude towards national legislation amendments to the revenue laws, elimination of competitive woods, restriction of reforestation and other matters.

The commission informs congress that the national association has been "very active" in legislative and departmental affairs, which affect this industry.

Numerous extracts from correspondence said to have passed between officials of regional organizations are given in the report to support the commission's charge that issuance of price lists from time to time was "an established practice." The correspondence quoted involved the Western Pine Manufacturers' association, the Association of Hemlock

LAYER IN NEW
FREEDOM PLEA;
CLAIM REFUTEDMan Serving Time for Murder
Explains Why He Sought to Go Home

MASK FINDING UP

Discovery by Children Is Subject of Affidavits Filed by State

The final plea of Henry Layer, serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary for the murder of eight persons near Turtle Lake on April 22 last, for a trial is made in a new affidavit filed in district court in Washburn. With Layer's affidavit there are filed affidavits of his wife and others bearing on the case.

Affidavits for the consideration of Judge W. L. Nieske, of district court, also are filed by the state's attorney. These affidavits particularly attack the story told of the finding of masks on the farm on which Jacob Wolf, six other members of his family and a chore boy were killed.

Stress was laid by attorneys for Layer on the finding of these masks on the farm by children of Emanuel Hofer, who is in charge of the estate. Both had been made from underwear. One of them was blackened and still had been cut in it so that the person using it could see. The other was of similar shape, but there were no holes in it. It was claimed the children also found an empty shot-gun shell.

Sheriff's Views

Sheriff Stefford, of McLean county, said that the whole case had been subjected by many people to the lure of the discovery of the murder and that the little girl, Martha Hofer, when asked to show the place where she had found the masks, led him and other members of the family to an entirely different place than that pointed out by her. The sheriff expresses the conviction that "these so-called masks or the cap could not have been in that location on the day following the discovery of the murder and not be discovered."

The state's attorney is Stuhlsaker, who said he had fixed a fence within a few feet of where the children are supposed to have found the masks and a dusting cap, and that he had been on the farm frequently, and had noticed nothing of the kind; Edward Hofer, 14-year-old boy, Emanuel Hofer and Sheriff Stefford.

What Boy Says

Edward Hofer states that he found one of the masks five or six days before his father saw the two smaller boys playing with the masks; that the mask which he found was the blacker one of the two without the holes cut into it, that he gave no thought to it until later he heard his father say that it might be a mask and that he is positive that it was after he found this mask in the pasture that the "little girl" found the cap referred to by his father in his affidavit.

Magdalena Hofer, "making an affidavit" for Layer's attorneys, says that it was while she was away from home that the children found the masks and that her younger son, John, who said he found them, John Hofer says that it was about November 13 that "his little daughter, Martha, about 4 years old, came running up to him, holding in her hand a 12 gauge black shot-gun shell and a woman's dusting cap. She had found them in the clump of bushes, she said. Two days later," he says, "he saw the children playing with the masks and he learned they were found in the same place as the dusting cap and shell."

Layer's Explanation

Layer attempts to explain one of the state's most vigorously pressed points against his claim that he confessed to the murder after being threatened with violence. After he was sentenced he asked the judge to permit him to visit home. He now says that he did this because he felt that if he could get back among his friends he would be safe.

MILLAGE TAX
PLAN FAVORED
BY ENGINEERSBelieve It Most Satisfactory
Way of Financing Needs of University

TO URGE ITS PASSAGE

President Kane's recommendation to the state legislature that a millage tax be provided instead of a specific appropriation for University of North Dakota has met with approval by the engineers of the state. The board of directors of the state chapter of the American Association of Engineers held in Bismarck resulted in the engineers supporting the millage tax proposal.

Those themselves technically trained men and graduates of institutions of higher learning, the engineers feel that they fully recognize the need and value of properly financing and developing the universities and colleges. Not only must higher education be made more fully within the grasp of the people at large, especially in the case of state institutions, but the best possible curriculum, teaching staff, laboratories, equipment and conditions must be provided for those who take advantage of higher education opportunities, they say.

The chapter board believes, with President Kane, that the most generally satisfactory method of financing educational institutions is by means of a millage tax as he has proposed. Among other advantages, the mill tax would not require the regular appearance of the institutions before the legislature for appropriations, except when necessary to change the rate of tax.

It is pointed out, however, that the millage tax here must be fixed upon a properly conceived plan as to the real needs of the institution, so that there will be provided funds ample to carry on its work and the contemplated developments. In other words, a millage tax, which is too low, providing insufficient funds is no better than any other appropriation which is equally inadequate.

It is stated that the American Association of Engineers of the state expect to make the necessary representations to the governor, the state board of administration and appropriate legislative committees supporting President Kane in securing the legislature's adoption of his recommendation.

WORK WAITS
ON REPORT
OF AUDITORSImportant Legislation Will Not
Be Attempted Until Audit
Is Known

EXPECT DRAFT SOON

Independents Not to Object to Calling Any Accountants
Wanted

The first week of the seventeenth session of North Dakota has passed and the chief point of interest is, as it was in the beginning, not legislation but the report of the auditing firm employed by the old board of auditors of which William Langer, formerly attorney general, was chairman.

The house expects to receive this report about the middle of the week. The legislature will probably mark time until it is in the hands of the speaker, which was indicated by the sentiment quite prevalent Saturday among both Nonpartisans and Independents favorable to adjourning until Wednesday.

Many Manuevers

Much maneuvering has been in evidence this past week. The Independents have charged the Nonpartisans with an attempt to block the report, which has been denied. The Nonpartisans maintain that all they desire to do is to make sure that the report is complete and clear to all members. That is why, they claim, that they ask that the men who made the report be called.

Independents agree that as many of the auditors may be brought here as desired as soon as the house receives the report, and decides how many are needed, not to cause any needless expense.

Want Facts

"We want the facts," said Mr. Langer today. "The people want the facts. We want to do everything we can to make it clear to everyone just what are the results of the audit. If calling any of us will help do this we are all ready to serve."

"The people have their money in these institutions. They are entitled to know what is being done and what has been done with it. The big majority given the initiative law can leave no doubt about this."

The contest instituted by R. J. List for the senatorial seat of Cass Wagon, of the Golden Valley district, will be heard before the senate elections committee beginning Wednesday morning in the Burlington county court house.

It is stated that the hearing will be open to the public, and the court house was chosen so that people might conveniently attend. Both List and Wagon will be represented by attorneys. Wagon received a majority of about 40, on the face of the returns.

HEADQUARTERS AT BISMARCK FOR GOOD ROADS

Will Holbein, Secretary of State Association to Maintain Offices in Capital City.

Headquarters for the newly formed North Dakota State Good Roads Association will be opened at Bismarck Monday with Will E. Holbein, formerly secretary of the Association of Commerce of Minn., in charge. Mr. Holbein, who is secretary of the association, met with J. J. Moe of Valley City, president, and Norman B. Black of Fargo, vice president, at the Fargo Commercial club today, to discuss the association's plans.

The Immediate Object

The immediate object of the association is to secure the passage by the state legislature of a proposed amendment to the state constitution, to be voted on by the people some time this year, that will provide for a comprehensive road system. Mr. Holbein said today.

"The association has mapped out a tentative plan for 5,000 miles of roads throughout every county in the state to be established under the direction of the state highway commission," said Mr. Holbein. "We expect to work in full co-operation with the highway commission for the benefit of the state. The association is in no way a political organization. We expect, under our plans, to build roads that will be fully worth what they have cost and to build the roads where they are most needed."

Plan for Financing

The new roads that are planned for the next four years will be paid for largely from the money collected by the tax on automobiles, if our proposed amendment, which is similar to the Babcock plan in Minnesota, is adopted.

Seventy-five per cent. of the money to be spent in the building of these roads will come from people living in the towns and cities and 25 per cent. of the roads under consideration will be built in the country districts of the state, Mr. Holbein said.

The expenses of the association will be maintained by membership. There are two classes of dues, a $5 annual membership and a $25 life membership. A campaign will be conducted at once for members for the association.

William Holbein, secretary of the state good roads association, arrived in Bismarck today, and announced that a meeting of the association would be held in Grand Forks the middle of the month.

Mr. Holbein, who resigned as secretary of the Minn. Association of Commerce to accept the good roads job, will urge that legislation for better highways be enacted by the legislature.

Eveready to Announce $10,000 Prize Winners

Local dealers have just received word that the names of the 144 winners in the Eveready flashlight Picture contest, which took place during June and July last, will be announced on January 20th.

A large number of entries for this contest were received from this city. More than 300,000 answers were sent in from the entire country. The award of the master prize of $10,000, with other prizes, totaling $10,000, has been eagerly awaited. One contestant called his answer from abroad, another got on the train and went several hundred miles to New York to present it in person. It is said that Governors of states and other officials did not hesitate to take part.

Public presentation will be made of the larger awards, and well-known dealers of this city will display the names of the winners during the week of January 20-27th.

SENATE WON'T CENSURE HOUSE ON RESOLUTION

Votes Down Liederbach's Motion to Criticize Action on Audit Report

An attempt made Friday afternoon by Senator Liederbach of Dunn to censure the independent members of the house failed.

In his resolution calling for a report from Bishop, Brissman & Co. appeared the paragraph:

"Whereas, it appears that the resolution introduced in the house should have been a concurrent resolution so that the senate might also have a copy of said report, and that the resolution was purposely not a concurrent resolution because a certain faction in the house did not desire that the report should be given fair consideration by both houses of the legislative assembly, but should be treated as the partisan wishes of the majority in the house dictated."

Takes Exception.

Senator Ployhar immediately took exception to that section of the senator's resolution, saying that he was in favor of securing a copy of the report of the audit company for the senate, but he didn't believe the senate should attempt to criticize the house. "The phraseology strikes me as peculiar," Liederbach replied.

"This audit company seems to have found a way to finance itself up to this time. The resolution calls for subpoenaing witnesses. Let's wait until we pass the resolution and we will find some way of financing," Senator Murphy objected to the censure of the house, saying that each house has a right to pass such resolutions as it may deem fit.

Gross Sees No Wrong.

Senator Gross of Grant, a leaguer, declared "I would like to be treated by an I. V. A. with the same courtesy—I would extend to them—I do not believe in doing anything that smacks of discourtesy. I will be glad to support Ployhar's motion to strike out the offending paragraph." "I don't see where we are in any way taking a slap at the house," replied Liederbach.

"Man alive can't you read!" asked Ployhar.

Senator Ettestad expressed himself. "It seems the house took a slap at the senate yesterday, but it looks like we were slapping back today."

McNair's Statement.

Another leaguer, Senator McNair, entered the debate. "Most of us who are met here are members of Christian churches, and know the admonitions taught. I do not believe this paragraph is necessary. If the action of the house was a slap, we should take it as Christian gentlemen and turn the other cheek. The conditions are just like a scab on the hand which get well if we don't aggravate it and start the blood running again."

Levang, a leaguer was in favor of the resolution as it stood.

On the vote on the Ployhar amendment several other leaguer senators joined in swelling the majority vote to strike out the paragraph.

Hudson and Essex Lead the New Competition

(A Statement by the Hudson Motor Car Company and Essex Motors)

Selective buying again rules the automobile market.

Inability to secure delivery of his first choice no longer forces the buyer to accept a less wanted car.

The return of competition to a basis of merit is welcomed by Hudson and Essex in common with all builders of established reputation.

They have not regarded competition on the basis of ability to deliver as at all a good thing for the motor industry. That situation invited many to plunge into automobile manufacture and exploit the quick profits seizable from unprecedented demand.

A Situation That Was Inevitable

Now once more the task of supplying the motor car demand devolves upon the builders, whose organization, experience and product have proved their fitness to survive through years of competition that recognized none's right to live except by superior merit.

We could not, in candor, urge that Hudson and Essex alone are deserving of consideration to the exclusion of all other cars.

We know there are other thoroughly good cars, some even that can well wear the name of great cars, and we acknowledge the ability, application and loyalty to ideals which alone could have produced them.

Yet today, more than 100,000 Hudson Super-Sixes are in service. It is, and has been for five years, the largest selling fine car in the world. Consider if its title to leadership were less deserved if the flaw would not have appeared in five years.

The Same Men Also Build Essex

And Essex shares this prestige. Not merely because Hudson builds the Essex, and therefore pre-pledges to it all the experience and knowledge gained in building Super-Six. Rather because the Essex, not content with this endorsement, has established its own place with such famous records as four times breaking the trans-continental record with four different cars, and in establishing the world's 50-hour endurance mark. And nearly 5,000 owners also know and acclaim its worth.

TWO LEGISLATORS DEBATE TARIFF MEASURE FOR READERS OF BISMARCK TRIBUNE

Opponents of Farm Relief Bill Waging Fight to Make It Last Emergency Measure to Come Before Congress

DUTIES FIXED BY FARM TARIFF BILL

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

Washington, Jan. 10—Here are the duties on farm imports laid down by the emergency tariff bill as it was passed by the House:

Wheat (bushel)	30 cents
Wheat flour (ad valorem)	20 per cent.
Corn (bushel)	15 cents
Beans (bushel)	2 cents
Potatoes (bushel)	25 cents
Onions (bushel)	45 cents
Chopped rice (bushel)	2 cents
Cottonseed, coconut and soya bean oil (gallon)	20 cents
Cattle (ad valorem)	20 per cent.
Long Staple cotton (pound)	7 cents
Unwashed wool (pound)	15 cents
Washed wool (pound)	30 cents
Scoured wool (pound)	45 cents

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

Washington, Jan. 10—"Make this the last 'emergency' measure," is the slogan of the opponents of the pending tariff measure imposing high import duties on raw farm products.

Congress has acquired the emergency measure habit. It passed many so-called emergency measures during the war and has carried the habit far into peace. The nation is paying the penalty for many of these measures, which have applied superficial remedies instead of seeking fundamental cures.

Opponents of the farm tariff bill have little hope of killing it in the Senate, but they do expect to attract so much attention to the conflict that the public will stand for no more emergency measures.

Chairman Joseph W. Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee is chief sponsor for the tariff bill drawn by Henry T. Rainey, ranking Democratic member of the committee, is leading the fight against it. Fordney and Rainey today debate the bill for readers of the Tribune.

BY J. W. FORDNEY,
Chairman Ways and Means Committee

It is not claimed that the emergency tariff bill is scientific. It is intended only as a relief measure—a temporary measure.

I hope at the extra session of Congress to see a substitute for this bill enacted which will remain in force while we are preparing a permanent revision of our tariff laws.

As such a relief measure, I hope to see Congress adopt either the Payne or the Dingley tariff laws. These would prevent great importations of foreign goods before we can prepare a new tariff bill.

The pending bill imposes temporary duties upon certain agricultural products. Information from many sources shows a serious condition confronting agriculturists on account of farm products. Prevailing prices are in many instances far below the farmers' production cost.

Present conditions are attributed to a large degree to importations from abroad. For instance:

In October, 1919, imports of wheat amounted to 564,756 bushels, but in October, 1920, these imports were 9,502,103 bushels.

In October, 1919, 1,044,719 pounds of lard and lamb were imported. In the same month in 1920 these imports were 27,024,372 pounds.

Wool industry in 1920. There is approximately 600,000,000 pounds of wool in storage in the United States, and the spring clip will begin two months hence. This quantity of wool is adequate to supply the wool consumption of the United States for a full year.

Woolmen and stock growers state that the sheep on the western ranges today are mortgaged for more than they will sell for on the market. The whole sheep industry and the cattle industry are in a most chaotic condition financially.

The bill attempts to do something that will save many men in these industries from bankruptcy. In fixing the duties in the bill, the distressed condition of these people was taken into consideration.

CHARGE POET SLACKING ON LAUREATE JOB

Parliament, However, Won't
Stand for Bouncing Bridges
For Kipling

London, Jan. 10.—Robert Bridges, Poet Laureate of the British Empire, is to remain in that office, despite a suggestion that he be removed. His fitness to do was questioned. The other day in the House of Commons by Horatio Bottomley, who asked the Premier if his national bard had written any poetry on the war, on the declaration of peace or on the unveiling of the cenotaph, and if not, would the prime minister consider appointing a national poet whose name was such an epitaph to the soul of the British nation.

Premier Lloyd George replied that so far as he was aware, the poet laureate had written nothing about the events mentioned, but Mr. Bridges had written many poems during the war, and it was not considered necessary to make any change.

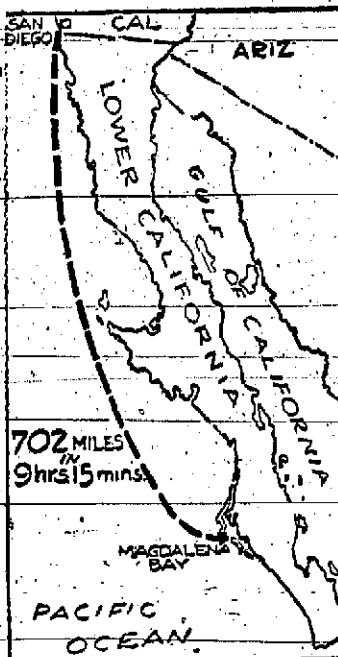

A wag in the house raised loud laughter by solemnly suggesting that Mr. Bottomley himself should take over the job.

When another member suggested that Rudyard Kipling should be offered the post, there was a chorus of "No!"

Mr. Bridges was appointed Laureate by former Premier Asquith, his friend and admirer, in 1913.

ANOTHER RECORD

Uncle Sam hung up a new aviation record—non-stop flight with pilot and five passengers—when the N. C. 5 flew from San Diego to Los Angeles, 702 miles, in nine hours and 15 minutes. Distance, 702 miles; speed, about 72 miles an hour. The N. C. 5 is a U. S. Navy seaplane, sister of the N. C. 4 which made the first trans-Atlantic flight. She is shown resting on the water, while on the pier a sailor is standing under the nose of another of the same type. This gives an idea of the great size of these planes.

PLEBISCITE OF SILESIA CAUSES WAR

Bloody Encounters Result as Election Approaches to Decide Fate

Berlin, Jan. 10.—The long, bitter, often bloody campaign among the voters of Upper Silesia is expected to come to an end January 17 with a plebiscite which will decide whether the region belongs to Germany or to Poland. As the time for the plebiscite draws nearer the keenest interest of Germans generally fastens on the rich industrial, coal-mining lands, with the visible fear that the Poles will win the elections.

Serious disorders before, during and after the elections are frankly considered probable, although approximately 20,000 troops, 200 tanks and 4000 police will be strategically distributed through the plebiscite area in an effort to preserve the peace. Presence of allied troops and many police, however, has failed to prevent fighting during the many months through which the plebiscite battle has raged, and excitement on both sides has been steadily increasing.

Throughout the autumn and early winter the German government has made every effort to win the sympathies of neutrals and Silesians to the German cause. Frequent charges have been made that German workmen were murdered by Poles. The Poles have been ridiculed, their business, political and social characteristics scornfully criticized.

It is charged by the pro-German campaigners that the Poles are without the men who have ability to manage the great industries of Upper Silesia and that under their rule these industries would be bound to decay, the operation of the mines deteriorate. Polish workmen, not so highly skilled or strongly organized as the Germans would over-run the region under a Polish regime and it has been urged, without work for such long wages that the German population would be forced to leave.

On the other hand the Polish agitators and particularly Wojciech Korfanty, former member of the Reichstag, have not only flooded the plebiscite area with appeals to unite with Poland but have openly threatened the German residents with expulsion should the Poles win at the elections. They have brought up the old issue of Prussian interference with religious worship. The fact that Poles were excluded from holding any offices under the old regime has tended to intensify their desire to carry the elections for Poland.

The Germans point out that with the loss of the rich Silesian coal fields it would be doubtful if they could fulfill their coal delivery program of the peace treaty. They assert that under the Polish government the coal fields would suffer such a decline in production that they would virtually be lost not only to Germany but to the rest of the world as well.

Into the campaign has entered every prejudice of race, religion and politics. In view of the intense excitement that prevails, Germans are warned they should not carry arms.

MOSE THROWS SILK HAT IN STORMY RING

Speakership of Third House to Be Decided Tomorrow Morning

ROSENWEIG OUT

Mailing Clerk's Campaign Being Managed by "Dad" Dawson

Only one candidate has yet thrown his hat in the ring in the race for speaker of the third house, which will be decided at a meeting of third house members tomorrow morning at a place which has not yet been decided upon. George A. Totten Jr., speaker at the last session, will probably call the body together. All employees of the house and senate and newspaper men are members.

The lone candidate is Mose Rosenweig of Grand Forks, whose campaign is being managed by "Dad" Dawson, chief clerk, of Beach, at the other end of the state.

Mose claims a score is under way to slip something over on him. As mailing clerk of the house he is the candidate of that body's employees. He says the senate employees have a candidate who is going to come out under cover of a smoke screen of midnight forest darkness and that he has his gentlemen posted so that he will not be caught unawares.

Has Scare
Both "Dad" and Mose have been busy counting noses for the last two or three days. They believe that on employees the senate has one to the good. This put a gloom in the Rosenweig camp and reports were circulated that he was anxious to draw in the interests of harmony when "Dad" remembered the members of the Fourth Estate and rushed to his candidate with the glad news that he was as good as elected.

Mose spent $1.50 having his hat re-blocked and shot it out in the ring again, with a "no returns" sign attached.

Mose and "Dad" have been pretty tough on midnight oil.

To all who read the following heavy platform, framed true to the old stump's joke, to get in or out, not to stand on, like the platform of ways' car:

For Joy
For pleasure, joy, frivolity, spice of life, life of spice, protection from outside as well as inside influences, promotion of our kind, betterment of the world, but more especially our immediate sector, we do hereby bind ourselves together in one union (without cards) upon the following several promises. In order words plank:

1. That the state mill at Dyke shall furnish free rye to all members of the Third House for the making of their own home brew.

2. That no charges of any kind shall be preferred against the speaker of the third house during his tenure in office without first securing unanimous consent from the lady stenographers.

Free Gum
3. That the board of administration shall furnish to the lady stenographers free chewing gum and candy, said supplies to be rationed out by the speaker himself. It is stipulated that lady stenographers shall not, no matter what the occasion, park their gum on the seats of chairs or behind their ears.

4. That there shall be no free love, although this does not extend to free loving or prohibition against spooning between the bookcases of the supreme court library.

Economy Demands
5. That both the senate and the house of representatives shall only summon pages when absolutely necessary, this being in keeping with the policy of economy.
6. That neither senators nor house members shall hold hands, caress, attempt to caress, or think they would like to caress, hold hands, or otherwise show affection for the lady employees, all such privileges being forever secured to and to be a part of the privileges of the third house members only.

7. That the white doves of the state house shall be forever unmoored and that Del Peterson, in the house and Fred Alex in the senate, shall be the specially named custodians thereof.

8. That the third house is unanimously in favor of the connection of the Missouri river and the St. Lawrence tidewater project, thus making the Missouri river an international stream upon which the submarines manned by P. L. Watkins and others of the joy-riders shall have no jurisdiction. Further that the Jewish and Irish fleets be entrusted with the task of policing said waters.

Oppose Fasts

9. That upon petition of Jewish Order of Hibernians, the third house is unanimously opposed to any analogous fast such as the famous Terence MacSwiney affair, and the third house is opposed to any of its members or any of the live ones in the first and second thirthing for 74 days.

10. That it is the unanimous opinion of the third house that the members of the press, since time immemorial charter members of the third house, shall in no way be hampered; that the freedom of the press shall be construed to mean freedom to at all times to break in where uncles and sons fear to tread, even to the use of the stenographer's typewriters.

11. That not less than four dancing parties shall be held during the balance of the session and that any state official, member of the first or second house, or member of the third house who shall absent himself will be punished as he deserves, not to exceed double the price of the ticket.

Audits Tabooed

12. No auditing concern shall ever be employed by any faction, should faction ever develop, to audit the books of the third house.

13. That the soldiers bonus shall be extended to benefit the members of the third house who have daily

ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE WOULD CHANGE LAWS

Bill Introduced Provides Stiffer Penalties for Liquor Violations

The North Dakota Law Enforcement League bill providing more stringent penalties for liquor sellers was introduced in the house Saturday afternoon by Miller of Bottineau. Nonpartisan, and Helroy of Bismarck, Independent, it was referred by Speaker Twitchell to both the temperance and the judiciary committees.

The principal changes in the proposed law from those already in force are three:

Vehicles used for the transportation of liquors be confiscated and sold at public auction, as provided in the federal law.

Persons arrested for intoxication must tell where they secured the liquor.

A search warrant may be secured where only there are reasonable grounds to believe that liquor is being dispensed. Under the present law the officer asking for the search warrant must know.

The law defines intoxicating liquors as any beverage containing more than 12 of one per cent of alcohol. It makes it unlawful for any man to sell or manufacture any intoxicants and prohibits advertising of utensils used in the manufacture of it.

It makes it illegal to receive or sell either in person or through an employee.

Rooms in which it is sold are declared common nuisances and offenders are empowered to take possession of them, closing them for one year and destroying personal property.

Private dwellings are exempt from search except when they are used for liquor purposes.

The penalty is increased. For first offenders a fine of not less than $200 or more than $1,000 and imprisonment for not less than ninety days or more than one year is imposed.

For the second offense, imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not less than one year or more than two.

A concurrent resolution was introduced calling on the North Dakota members in Congress to support the

JUDGE ENGERUD, NOTED LAWYER, DIES SUDDENLY

Stricken With Heart Trouble in Fargo Floral Shop—Was on Supreme Bench

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 10.—Judge Edward Engerud, one of the most prominent attorneys in the state, died suddenly Saturday evening in a floral shop.

Death, which was due to heart failure, was almost instantaneous. Judge Engerud had entered the floral shop to purchase a bouquet for his little daughter, Doris, and had just made the purchase when the heart attack occurred, and was practically instantaneous.

Judge Engerud was born in Racine county, Wisconsin, Feb. 13, 1868. Most of his early years were spent in Minnesota, to which his parents moved in his early childhood. He came to Grand Forks in 1892 where he attended high school and later went to Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., where he graduated in 1887. He entered on the study of law in an office at Fargo Falls and was admitted to the bar in 1893, when only 25 years of age. He began practice at Fargo Falls, but in 1898 moved to Sheldon, N. D., where he remained until 1897, when he came to Fargo and entered into partnership with Fred B. Morrill, under the firm name of Morrill & Engerud.

On Supreme Bench.

While at Sheldon he had served for a time as state's attorney and during his partnership with Mr. Morrill he was for a time assistant state's attorney of Cass county. About the year 1904 he was elected a justice of the supreme court of North Dakota, but did not serve out his term. He resigned to enter the law partnership of Engerud, Holt & Frame with which he continued to his death. He served for several

COMMUNITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Community council was held in the Free Civic rest room on the lower floor of the Masonic temple at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Twenty-five representatives responded. Roll call and important matters pertaining to the welfare of women and children in the city were taken up. The legislative committee, of which Mrs. C. L. Young is chairman, arranged to detail one member of the committee to attend each session of the legislature during the period of the session. It was decided that members should be present at public meetings of such boards as county commissioners, district court and school board with a view to having a better understanding of the conditions relating to care of women and children in the city and the county. Two child welfare specialists, Mrs. Cole and Miss Lela Hout of the State Agricultural college addressed the council on child nutrition and reported that out of the 310 children weighed and measured during the clinic last week in Bismarck, 150 children were underweight. They reminded the council that Minneapolis and Minneapolis are among the towns making the plan of child nutrition with a half pint of milk in school during the forenoon session. The council went on record as being behind any movement that can be worked out for raising the standard of child welfare in Bismarck and the county. Mrs. Bonham was named chairman of a committee for looking after child welfare.

It was voted to change the hour of meeting from 4 p. m. to 3:30, but the next regular meeting will be held at 4 o'clock as usual.

MODERN BRIDE ADDS WEDDING GOWN TO WARDROBE AFTER "DAY OF DAYS"

For reception wear, plain panel replaces long square train of wedding gown.

BY CORA MOORE
New York's Fashion Authority
New York, Jan. 10.—A longer does the bride preserve her wedding gown all done up in tissue paper and dead rose-leaves. Sentiment seems to have given way to sense. The most popular wedding gown is the one that is obviously designed so that it can be worn as a reception frock after it has served its primary purpose on the society, which will be held in Bismarck, Feb. 10 and 11. It is planned to have motion picture theaters feature engineering films during the week. The program will be announced later.

Return to Montana.
Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Clarke came in from Montana on Thursday and returned on Friday. They are making an extended stay in Montana while Mr. Clarke attends to business affairs.

WHAT TO BUY IN FURS THIS BARGAIN SEASON

BY CORA MOORE

New York's Fashion Authority.
New York, Jan. 8.—Now that the season of bargains in furs has duly arrived, smart suggestions as to what to buy may be appreciated, especially looking ahead to another winter.

First, the furs that are most pliable are to be preferred. This applies especially to coats since some of them have stiff interlinings which make them cumbersome and ungraceful.

It is difficult to advise between coats and wraps because they serve quite different purposes, the latter being altered to suit the season. Illustrated is a beautiful mink coat that is one of the most successful on point-toe between wrap and coat. It is a three-section coat, each section fitted to a foundation with a great soft-lined collar and large sleeves that end in a wide band effect.

Hudson seal promises to be a good as ever another year. A good small fur, the wolverine or Barvard cape collar that can be turned into a fur, is a safe choice.

"day of days."
A well-known designer turned out this gown for one of New York's most popular Christmas brides. When the wedding is over, the veil of tulle with edging of real lace will be carefully removed and packed away. But the gown itself will be taken along in one of the trousseau trunks to be worn as a charming reception gown. It is an original model. A narrow skirt of ivory satin with a scalloped edge forms the foundation. Over this is a surplice tunic that is fitted at the back, forming side draperies. A lace-trimmed panel that continues into a long square train is made removable so that for reception wear the plain panel may be substituted and the beautiful wedding gown becomes a frock suitable for any occasion calling for a sumptuous evening dress.

Harc for Session.
Mrs. O. C. Gross of Stebbins, Grant county, is one of the women here for the session, accompanying her husband, Senator O. C. Gross.

Baby Daughter in Town.
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dalton, 511 First street, are the parents of a baby daughter born at Bismarck hospital on Saturday night, January 8.

Returned to Medora.

Methodist Missionary Society.
The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet Tuesday, Jan. 11, at the home of Mrs. Severinsen, 823 5th street at 2:30 o'clock.

School Notice.

MEN'S MEETING OF EVANGELIST ATTRACTS MANY

Sunday Is Red Letter Day in the Evangelical Church of City

MEETINGS CONTINUE

Sunday was a big day at the Evangelical church of this city. It was a red letter day in the lives of more than a score of people who took Christ into their lives yesterday. Evangelist Capeland possesses seemingly unlimited amount of physical and mental endurance. He preached four times in succession yesterday and at each service he seemed as fresh as if it had been the first service of the day.

Children of the Evangelical church, showing them by striking illustrations and well chosen Bible passages, why Christ came into the world and how he saves from sin. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon he addressed the inmates at the state penitentiary and at 4 o'clock he addressed a good sized audience of men at the Evangelical church. His text at the men's meeting was, "What shall it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Mark 8: 36. His masterly presentation of the subject, his gripping sentences and striking illustrations and his many passionate appeals to the men to yield themselves to Christ will long be remembered. The men's cluons of the church favored the audience with very beautiful and appropriate song.

In the evening the Evangelist took for his text the words: "Wherefore He is able to save unto the uttermost them that draw near unto God through Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them."

Before he began to preach he paid a tribute of appreciation to those who so kindly supported this campaign all various ways. He said, he felt it his duty to publicly express his appreciation of the generous publicity the Bismarck Tribune had given to the meetings, and added that he had seldom enjoyed a series of meetings as much as he enjoyed this campaign in the city of Bismarck.

On Daily Papers

"The more we read the daily papers," said the evangelist, "the more we are convinced that the world needs a mighty Saviour. We don't have to go to the Bible to learn that the wages of sin is death, we see evidences of this fact all around us. This world needs a Saviour to save men from their sins. Down in the depths of human heart there is this conviction, that we need a mighty Saviour, Jesus came to meet that need. He came to save men from their guilt, the penalty of sin, and sin and will surely save us from the presence of sin." He said, Jesus is the one who will, by his matter who you are and what your condition is, Jesus is able to save and keep you from sin. In response to the invitation that was extended about 20 persons came forward to give their lives to Christ and all testified to have found peace and joy in Him before the service closed.

The revival will continue all of this week. Some services are being held at 7:30 and preaching at 8 o'clock. Afternoon meetings at 2:30. The public is cordially invited.

DRIVE DOVES OUT OF SENATE AND HOUSE

The doves of peace are gone.

They were not driven out of the legislative halls by the fierce oratory of the soldiers, however. Their careers ended only when a full force of janitors and bullies were loosed on them.

For several days the pigeons flew about and perched in the senate and house of representatives. Apparently they refused to give up their apparently self-appointed task as messengers of peace and good will while they words thundered across the assembly halls.

Willie Lahr, custodian, decided it would be best to get rid of the pigeons then to permit them to stray to death. A crew was organized to capture the birds. Finally a mouse was suspended and caught the bird's neck.

A peal task confronted the crew in the house of representatives. The pigeon was perched on a highest ledge. The aid of Charles Llesman, secretary of the board of administration, and R. L. Muir was enlisted. A revolver was produced, but it wouldn't answer the purpose. Mr. Muir then took a trusty pole and after a few shots the bird tumbled down from its perch.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

NOT A MONEY MAKING VENTURE

Bismarck has the reputation of supporting good attractions in its too seldom used city auditorium, so generously supported by the taxpayers of the city. The day is coming ere long when that community center, one of the best in the state, must respond more efficiently to the needs of the capital city so that more of the people can enjoy this agency of recreation than is now possible under an arrangement that confines its use almost solely to one class of entertainment.

The Tribune prints elsewhere in its columns what one little Wisconsin town has done with its community building. It is not merely a show house, but responds to the many activities of the municipality just as our city auditorium, now dark most of the time, can be made to fill more completely the demands of a civic center or community building.

On Jan. 18, there will appear at the auditorium an artist of note, Theo. Karle, tenor with the Metropolitan Opera company. This attraction is not a money making venture. He is being brought here under the auspices of the Bismarck Conservatory of Music in co-operation with public spirited citizens and the price has been regulated just to cover the overhead. No one hopes to realize any monetary gain from the venture, but all those interested in the event trust that the bringing of a great artist to Bismarck will have its cultural value and at the same time stimulate the taste and desire for the better things in music.

The Tribune urges the hearty support of this concert. A crowded house should greet Theo. Karle.

His appearance should herald the coming of other attractions of like calibre as frequently as the demand will permit, to that end that the Auditorium may be employed more and its service as a community center brought closer to the man who may not have the top price of stellar attractions.

Let us study what is being done in other cities to make their auditoriums more and more of community centers and less and less merely opera houses where ten or twelve performances are given a year.

The Tribune in unison with hundreds of others in Bismarck, realizes that the city has a big investment in the Auditorium and that for the money involved, and the cost of upkeep, the city gets only a periodic road show within the reach of a stated few. It is a fine arrangement that places Bismarck in line for some of the best attractions and The Tribune heartily congratulates the management upon some of the attractions brought to the city, but should the city stop there and dedicate the building to such attractions only?

What is the experience of other cities? Is it not possible to enlarge the services of the finest municipal auditorium in North Dakota?

The Tribune would like to receive and will print suggestions from citizens on how to make the auditorium of greater service to a greater number in Bismarck.

Couple was married in a Baltimore theater. That's nothing; we've heard of many elopers skipping out before the father's foot lights.

WEATHERING THE WINTER

One associates with goloshes and umbrellas upon a rainy day. He leaves them at home when the clouds disappear. But he doesn't throw them away. He hopes to have them near at hand for use when it rains again. Thus does man guard against wet feet and cold-soaked clothing.

Yet somehow, man displays less wisdom when he tries to weather a winter. He wears his heavy clothing just so long—and changes. Comes a return of wintry weather. Does he change back? He does not. He insists winter is over. To that decision you may trace many colds and deaths.

Cyrus H. Eshleman of the U. S. Weather Bureau, believes mankind doesn't pay enough attention to weather changes. He thinks much illness would be avoided, and many lives lengthened, if humans would weather a winter more sensibly. He would have you change from heavy to lighter clothing as the weather changes, and back again. This latter is important. Most persons are eager to discard their woollens, but dread going back into them for a day, or a week. This, Eshleman insists, causes many colds. These changes are especially frequent along the sea and lake shores.

Another weather change he points out, comes almost every night. One goes to sleep in a moderately warm room. Of course, the window should be opened. This causes the change in room temperature, often a drop of as much as 20 degrees. Yet you have no more cover on the bed than when you went to sleep. This taxes the vitality. The habit of waking and adding covers should be formed.

"One doesn't go out into cold weather bare-headed during the day," Eshleman says, "but one spends hours of the coldest night bare-headed." Wear a nightcap, he advises.

Weathering a winter is not at all difficult if one regulates the covering of his body by the temperature of that moment, and not blindly by the calendar. In other words: if it rains raise the umbrella; lower it when the rain stops; but don't be foolish enough not to raise it at a future time just because that isn't, according to the calendar, the rainy season.

In these days of high-priced hooch, destitution follows the jug.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

KEEPING NAMES OUT OF THE NEWS-PAPER

Every editor at one time or another is asked by some prominent citizen to "Keep my name out of the paper." "If anything happens in our family, don't mention it." "Don't print my name in your paper if I go visiting or have visitors, for it's nobody's business."

All these little petty things confront an editor, and if he takes them seriously, he will wonder just at what time this "funny" person does really want to see his name in print.

An Ohio man who got offended at something, told one of his local papers not to use his name again in the paper. Some time later it again offended. He sailed into the newspaper office with blood in his eye. "Didn't I tell you," he yelled, "not to use my name in your paper under any circumstances? If you do, there'll be trouble."

After he had departed, the manager issued an order that the man's name must not be used.

So when a bank directors' meeting was held and the officers elected, the name of the objector was stricken out. So in every other case of similar nature.

Finally, the funeral of a distinguished citizen was held and the next morning when the names of pallbearers appeared, the name of the complainant was conspicuous by its absence. About this time, the latter "got wise."

He saw there were two sides to the case and he concluded it was time he went around to the newspaper office and apologized. And he did—Fourth Estate.

MR. L. L. TWITCHELL

Members of the lower house of the legislature made no mistake in the choice of L. L. Twitchell as speaker.

No man who makes for any cause the vigorous and fearless fight that Mr. Twitchell has made, can escape making enemies. Mr. Twitchell doubtless has made political enemies but even they will admit that he is the best posted man on legislative matters in Bismarck today. His long experience in the house, his legal training, and his tireless industry have given him a knowledge of the state's affairs such as is possessed by few other men in the state. Perhaps it would not be an exaggeration to say "by no other man."

During the sessions when the Independent voters were but a sorry minority, Mr. Twitchell's resourcefulness and unquestioned ability won him the respect even of his opponents. Nothing escaped him. There never was a chance to "slip anything over" when he was in the house. He generally saw further into a bill than the men who drew it, and any "jokers" were promptly dragged into the light of day. He was a tireless fighter, never discouraged by any odds, and the state unquestionably owes him a debt of gratitude for his faithful, persistent efforts. He has fairly won the recognition that has come to him, and his program of fair play and economy certainly will win the approbation of every fair minded voter.

In his new position he has, at this critical period in the state's history, a rare opportunity for service, and The Forum believes he will measure up to that opportunity.—Fargo Forum.

FORE

Legislative Notes

P. A. Peterson, capitol carpenter, has made two new gavels each for the presiding officers of both houses. They are made from oak and maple taken from the desks of the territorial assembly. In transmitting them to the speaker and the lieutenant-governor, Governor Frazier said: "Trusting that this token may be useful in your administration of fairness and justice, I am"

Dr. Melvin R. Gilmore, curator of the state historical museum, has left for Des Moines, Iowa, where the first three days of this week a conference of notable park experts is being held at the call of the governor of Iowa. Dr. Gilmore will tell of the proposed memorial park in the state capitol grounds. J. Horace McFarland, president of the American Civic Association, Emerson-Hough, the famous nature author, Senator Peter Norbeck, South Dakota, and other well-known men.

Through a typographical error Sherman of Kider was made, to say in the report of the debate Thursday that he did not want the (audit) report when it should have been that he did want the report.

Senator Lyman W. Sherry of Burlington is getting nicely into the saddle. He has had considerable political experience before, so that it is comparatively easy for him to get the hang of the ropes.

Charles M. Whittier of Mercer Over-Dunn, a gentleman with distinguished gray and much of poetic aspect, is the peace dove, or in other words the senator flake, of the house.

Martin Olson of Hamsel, a former sheriff of the county that sent him here, is one of the old experienced politicians of the house who hasn't been saying much up to the present, but has had a keen eye for all that has been going on and will be heard from later on.

One of the star orators of the house is Frank A. Vogel of McLean. He has the physique of a Bryan and talks in direct, convincing style which is free from strain but effective in all sectors of the chamber. The Non-partisans will doubtless depend on him.

Carl Kostitzky, former state auditor, is in Nebraska now visiting his parents and it is probable that he will go into Kansas and join the speaking force opposing Towley in that state.

Claude Lackey of Grant, a new member of the house, is one of the most energetic members in it. He is on the job all the time.

W. B. Stevenson, county surveyor of Cass county and delegated by the North Dakota chapter of the American Association of Engineers to see to the introduction of its bill for the registration of professional engineers and land surveyors, is spending a few days in the city attending to that matter.

The engineers of the state have made a number of efforts in the past for the licensing of engineers and surveyors, but have not been successful. It is believed now, however, that the legislature will pass the act which is conceived with the idea that better engineering service will be given and more economical construction of improvements will result.

Bismarck boys and girls must quit dancing on tables in the statehouse while the legislature is debating weighty questions.

William Laist, custodian of the statehouse, went to Mayor Lucas Saturday afternoon and got special police power, and he proposes to use it if necessary.

"The boys and girls have been running all over the statehouse," he said. "They danced on a table on the fourth floor and broke it. They ran over the tops of the shelves of the book cases in the supreme court library, and they go tearing up and down the halls."

"If the boys and girls want to come to the statehouse and watch the legislature in action they are welcome, but they must quit being rowdies or they will be arrested, that's all."

"That's right," nodded Nick. "Because there is a wicked wizard who is trying to keep us from getting to the South Pole. He is a friend of Snitcher Snatch who stole all the toys made for little boys' and girls' birthdays and he doesn't wish us to get them back. We think it was this wizard who turned the Arctic Circle into a top wall so we couldn't get past. But we got through because we had the golden key."

"What's his name?" asked Nick. "He's called the Bobadli Jinn," answered Nick. Ishtu started. "So you know about him!" he exclaimed. "Who told you?" "Santa Claus," answered Nick.

VILLAGE OF 350 SOLVE A CIVIC CENTER PROBLEM

Hiron, Wis., Jan. 10.—The village of Hiron, Wis., with a population of seventy families, women and children, has erected a $22,000 memorial community hall.

It can't be done? Hiron did it, and taxes were not raised a penny.

The fact is, this little village had so much money in its treasury that the people used to sit up nights scratching their heads and wondering what to buy with their surplus wealth.

Hiron, about four miles from Wisconsin Rapids, is a paper mill town. The big mill of the Consolidated Water Power & Paper company pays so much taxes to the village that current expenses of the community fall to use up the income.

So they built the community hall as a memorial to service men and women.

It contains an auditorium seating 500 persons, more than the total population of the village. There are chambers for the village council, a billiard room, bowling alleys, reading and lounging rooms, a women's parlor, kitchen, men's and women's locker rooms and shower baths, and halls for lodges, the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls and other organizations.

So well planned and equipped is the building that several cities have sent representatives to inspect it with a view to incorporating some of its features in similar structures.

It is said to be the first memorial hall erected in Wisconsin.

SONG OF THE NEW YEAR

Here I come! Here I come!
Over mountain and snow,
Tripping gayly and swiftly
Wherever I go;

I sing a glad song,
And I bring you good cheer;
Who am I? Don't you know?
I'm the Happy New Year.

In the night, 'ere 'twas light,
I was sent on my way,
To meet you, and greet you,
And wish you Good Day;

I am happy and free,
And I love children, dear;
Now you know that I am
The glad happy New Year.

Florence Bonner.

With the Movies

EETINGE.

The majestic grandeur and the frequently fatal results of a terrific thunder and lightning storm are shown in "The Strangers." William Christy Cabanne's powerful story of the humankind, "The Strangers," is presented, which will begin a run of two days at the Eltinge Theatre, beginning Monday.

The scenic splendors of "The Strangers" are only surpassed by the heart-grabbing, soul-elevating plot. The story revolves about a preacher of the Gospel who, submitted to suffering, turned against God and sought to revenge himself against the Creator by leading a life of crime under the cloak of his calling. How he is made to see the error of his ways and is won back to the true functions of his calling forms the most moving climax that has ever been seen on the screen in the opinion of experts.

William Christy Cabanne, a well known actor of the stage and screen, plays the part of the minister. The other leading players include Ruth Dwyer, Norma Shearer, Jack Crosby, Walter Miller, Jack O'Brien and Matthew J. Butz.

SUES FOR DAMAGES

Mohall, N. D., Jan. 10.—A damage action in the courts several years and which has attracted state-wide attention has been ended by a decision of the supreme court affirming the judgment of $2,000 damages granted Mrs. Adie McKee in a lower court in her suit against Nels Iverson, a local banker. On July 4, 1917, Mrs. McKee's husband, J. McKee, was killed while riding in Iverson's automobile. Iverson was driving the car himself.

In her action, Mrs. McKee alleged recklessness on the part of Iverson.

All Dickinson is in mourning over the death of Mrs. Fred Tupper, one of the city's most highly respected and beloved women. Although she had complained for some time of a tired, languid feeling, her nearest relatives had no inkling of the seriousness of her condition and were almost amazed with the suddenness of her passing. She entered St. Joseph's hospital last Saturday but lingered only until early Tuesday morning, when she quietly passed away.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

Bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of violent and drastic. No one who takes Calomel can ever cured with a "black face," indigestion, a bad breath, a dull, listless, "sick" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, and are far more potent than their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the surest and most effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. See and see.

Oblong Trees.
In the school of forestry, at Cambridge, there exists a wonderful specimen of an oblong tree. The trunk is about 30 by 2 inches. Its curious shape is due to no more than a little bruise or two which persuaded it to grow in one direction and not at all in any other. Other discoveries and experiments prove that an artistic bruise—it may be no more violent than strong pressure with the finger tips—can make a tree expand in a desired direction.

ROAD BUILDING
DIRT ROADS CARE IN SPRING
Proper Drainage Is Chief Essential in Maintenance—Road Drag Is Especially Useful.
The cardinal essential in spring maintenance of earth roads, especially those on heavy soils, is good drainage. So long as the water can be kept from penetrating deeply into these roads they will remain at least fairly passable. To accomplish this on average earth roads, however, is far from easy. During the early part of this season of the year rains are often of long duration and tend to saturate the soil. Water from melting snows is perhaps even more penetrating than long-continued rains, while alternate freezing and thawing of the wet surface tends to increase the porosity of the soil and permit even more ready access of water into the foundation.
The chief attention of the road man must therefore be directed toward getting and keeping the water away from the road. So long as the foundation can be kept dry, even a heavy freeze followed by a rapid thaw will do little or no real damage to the road surface. A dry soil does not heave. The foundation will therefore still be solid, and the road will be able to sustain the traffic without serious rutting. On the other hand a saturated soil expands greatly on freezing, and when it thaws out it is not only lost practically all power of sustaining the weight of traffic, but also is in an ideal condition for taking up absorbing still more water, and thus forming still more mud.
During the early part of the season, as long as the weather is very rainy or there is melting snow on the ground it will pay to have the road man go over the road daily to see that the drains and side ditches do not become clogged and to note the need of any necessary repairs. A few minutes' work with a shovel may prevent a serious washout or damages, which, if not promptly checked, might make the road practically impassable.
The road drag or some other similar device finds its greatest usefulness during this season. It may be used to good advantage to clear the roadway of slush and melting snow and so prevent this water from soaking into

Freckles and His Friends

Drag Most Useful in Spring.
and softening the subgrade. To fill ruts, smooth the surface and maintain the crown of the road, the drag is unexcelled when in the hands of a skilled operator. An unskilled man may do more harm than good. Furthermore, the actual condition of the road during this period will depend very largely on the knowledge of the road man as to just when to drag, as well as his skill in the operation of the implement.
In addition to the maintenance, provision should be made for doing all necessary grading or earth-work as early in the spring as possible, in order that it may become thoroughly consolidated before this dry weather of summer. If the work is done too late the road will not only probably become very dusty in dry weather, but will need additional attention later in the fall. Where the soil is a heavy clay or gumbo the condition of the road may be very materially improved by adding sand from time to time as it already on the road is worked up by the passing traffic and the drag.

PROVIDE RUNWAY FOR WATER
Plenty of Splice Should Be Allowed in Rebuilding Bridge or Culvert—Repair Costs Cease.
Whenever a bridge or culvert is rebuilt, use some form of permanent construction, seeing to it that plenty of runway is allowed for the water. Then repair costs, will virtually cease, and the money now wasted will begin to show in roads that are good 12 months in the year.

KEEP UP FARM APPEARANCE
Unightly Features May Be Unseen by Farmers, But Passerby Is Keen to Discern Signs.
The farmer interested in attracting trade in his farm products should look well to the appearance of his place. Unightly features, such as a broken fence, a dilapidated barn, or a neglected garden, will not only reflect on the farmer's character, but will also tend to keep away the trade that he is anxious to attract.

HAZEN BEATS WERNER 12-6

Hazen and Werner basket ball teams met Friday evening and played the closest game on the north bench this year. The final score was 12 to 6 in favor of Hazen.

Werner started the game with a lone basket from the center. This was followed by a free shot and field basket by A. Smith of the Hazen team.

The score stood close all through the game. As forward, A. Smith of Hazen played a star game securing 10 of the 12 points made by Hazen. He was aided by R. Stoeling, the other forward, whose passing was good. Hubert Stoeling did stellar work at guard. The Werner forwards were held to no points. Foss at center played the center position well and also secured one basket.

The game was played on a floor that was as slippery as ice, which made the game slow and rough.

Hutchinson at guard was Werner's best man.

Werner will meet Hazen Jan. 12 and another close game is expected.

The Insider Says

Go west, young man, go west, but take the best you've got. The Bears showed up Ohio's pass. Along other things, oh, what?

The Yankees are stirring up with temperance. Bobby Roth, outfielder, who has already done time on five American League clubs, is the packet which Clark Griffith has turned over to Hunkley for Dolly Lewis and George Magridge.

When Ed Harrow was doping out the destinies of the Red Sox it was said he couldn't hit it off with Roth or Ruth. Now the trio are all roasting on the same limb again.

The answer to the success of all athletic sports in 1920 has been laid out in argument. "Dry argument," says the fans.

Jack Dunn is only three signatures away from another Baltimore pennant. The other trio of 1921 contracts will probably be locked up with the rest of 'em soon.

Edouard Rostand, challenger for Hopper's billiard crown, doesn't fiddle with his cue. He has a first time hit stick slips through his fingers.

Carl Mays will be pitching next season to his old catching huddle. Wally Schang, as a result of the recent raid made on the Red Sox by the Yankees.

Benny Boynton, biggest individual point scorer of 1920 football, has decided to pass up his chance to be a West Coast star. He graduates from Williams in June.

Ray Caldwell says that any pitcher who has Steve O'Neill catching his breaks already has two strikes on the batter.

The margin lead which Joe Lynch has on the bantamweight championship is figured so slight that an underwear may figure in his first start if he gets either Tienmala, Burman or Alonzo on his menu.

The Minneapolis baseball syndicate is planning to buy the St. Joseph club of the Western League for a Miller farm.

Things you'll never find in a pawn shop, a golfer's club or a ball player's old, ragged glove.

Even Frank Moran has his eyes on the loser's end of a bill with Dempsey.

Carrying a billiard table around the world looks like a heavy undertaking. But Miss Carolyn Plattner, champion woman pocket billiard player, is off on such a tour. She plans to be gone for two years.

With Catcher Yorgan the White Sox may be able to start a little home-run show themselves next season. The Western League recruit smacked off 41 in 1920.

It is estimated that there are 9-10,000 golfers and a million tennis players in the United States.

Incompetency. When we once sipped the clerical wine Our cups all went astray. But now since hooch and booze are gone, They're coming back our way.

The Pirates are considered so good that other clubs hesitate to ease up stars their way in swaps.

With the America's cup on the shelf of U. S. skipper and the Davis cup on a way back home the Philippines we ought to raid England and pick

WATER MARVEY IS FIXING TUBS AND PIPES NOW

Norman Ross Thinks His Records Safe This Year

BY RUSS SIMONTON
CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Norman Ross will have more to do with bath tubs than swimming tanks this year.

But the champion swimmer hasn't given up the water sport.

It just happens that he's devoting more of his time this winter to fixing pipes, bath tubs, radiators, etc., than to his swimming.

Ross, who is holder of many championships which he has gathered in six different countries, thinks that more people will swim in 1921 than ever before.

People Get Wise
They are learning that swimming is good for them, he says.

"Swimming is wholesome. It is the best exercise for the ordinary man or woman."

The past year proved that America produces the best swimmers in the world. At the Olympic games we showed them all our methods were best.

Records to Stand
Ross doesn't think any water records will be broken in 1921.

"Perhaps Duke Kahanamoku may set a few new marks, but it's my off the golf and polo cups which would make it a cup party."

Ross's about as much as bidding for Rogers Hornsby as making an offer to buy the U. S. navy.

SPORTTUTORIAL
Commy Fights on Alone

Charles Comiskey is taking the bitterest medicine that any club owner has ever called upon to swallow.

But true to his title the old Roman is sticking by the ship which is his riddled ball club and the black sheep organization of the major leagues.

Quit? Not on your life. Commy says he'll stand by until he has given

Chicago fans another championship.

Sister clubs of the American League, who promised to aid Commy, have so far refused to give him aid. They have left him to work out his own baseball salvation.

His enemies are seeking to drive the Old Roman out of the game by circulating fake propaganda. They have him selling his team. They have him taking back the dishonest players who wrecked his team.

But it is all untrue. Commy fights on.

He'll rebuild with young players the best he can. His stars are not for sale. Neither will he trade them. They stand by him in his fight and he'll stand by them now.

Just what kind of a club he'll have assembled by the time the Sox take the field next spring is hard to figure. But whether it is it will represent a man who didn't cry when he was hurt and a man who is taking his medicine.

First Campaign Emblem.
As far as knowing the best campaign emblem was a finger ring of copper. It was worn by the adherents of John Quincy Adams in 1824, when he ran for president, and was inscribed "John Quincy Adams, 1825." Tories and traitors were among the best men of the 1800 campaign.

Killy is Young (Andy) Chaney, a tough customer for any boxer to face. Brittle Hands
Kilbane has had the misfortune to have a bad pair of hands. They are gnarled and twisted from fractures and breaks. He suffers much after using them, setting them in condition for the next fight. The problem of this force is practically free from all marks and scars which fighters usually bear.

During his career he has had over 140 fights. He won 20 of them by his knockout punch.

Full of Tricks
He knows more ring tricks than a dancing master knows steps. The feather champ will be 32 next April. That's not old for a business man.

N. D. FIELD CROP VALUE PLACED AT 192 MILLION

North Dakota's field crop production in 1920 shows a total farm value of $222,215,000 compared to $193,551,000 for 1919, $382,236,000 in 1918, and $220,315,000 in 1917, according to the report of the U. S. bureau of crop estimates in its final crop review for 1920. The total acreage of cultivated crops in North Dakota this season is placed at 14,530,000 acres, or approximately 5 per cent less than the 1919 acreage and 1.2 per cent less than the war record acreage of 15,905,000 acres in 1918, but 28 per cent greater than the total cultivated acreage of 11,334,000 acres shown in the 1909 census. This state has led all other states in 1920 in the acreage of spring wheat, barley, rye and flax. Potatoes are first with corn second in the production value this season. Corn and tame hay acreages show very substantial gains over the 1919 acreage of these crops with moderate increases for oats, barley and flax. The decrease in the total cultivated acreage of the state is due to the marked decrease in the rye and wheat acreages. Rye acreage shows a reduction of 1,011,000 acres, wheat 400,000 acres, and potatoes, 5,000 acres from that of 1919.

The agricultural record of 1920 was one of extreme changes in which the farming industry was subjected to an unusual amount of uncertainty and trying conditions. Notwithstanding the wholehearted effort put forth, the years output for the majority of North Dakota crops has fallen below the average.

The spring opened up rather late and field work made little progress until the closing week of April due to cold backward weather. Severe April freezes injured rye stands quite generally in the state. Lack of time combined with the severity and high price of labor worked against efficient soil preparation. The acreage of wheat although reduced from that of 1919 was nevertheless much heavier than would have been true in a late spring had not the supply and distribution of seed wheat been much more favorable than for feed grains.

LIVESTOCK MEN WILL ORGANIZE

Agricultural College, N. D., Jan. 10.—Agricultural college of North Dakota livestock shipping associations will meet in Fargo Wednesday, January 19, in connection with the meeting of the Tri-State Grain Growers Convention, according to a call issued today by W. R. Porter, agent in Marketing of the Agricultural College.

W. A. Mckerrow, secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Livestock Shipping Associations, has been asked to address the meeting. Other addresses will be made by Prof. J. H. Shepperd, animal husbandman of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and J. W. Haw, his assistant.

Reduced rates to the Tri-State convention on the basis of one and a half fare for the round trip on the certificate plan, has been granted by the railroads from all points in Minnesota, North and South Dakota. The convention is held in the Fargo auditorium January 18 to 21 inclusive.

The national association of Banded Plymouth rock poultry breeders will be held in Fargo this week in connection with the Tri-State convention, while eight or ten other associations will hold their annual meetings.

President John Bracken of the Manitoba Agricultural College will attend the convention and make an address upon "The Canadian Seed Growers Association," he advised officers of the convention today after notifying them earlier he would be unable to keep his appointment. He is also a director of the association.

Each of the 200 local shipping associations in the state has been asked to send a representative to the federation organization meeting, which will be held in the Fargo commercial club rooms at 9 a. m. January 19.

GIVE-HIM A CHANCE

There is little satisfaction in punning a fellow who doesn't snap back. Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, has been on the receiving end of some mighty still uppercuts from Kid Public Opinion.

To the casual fan who hasn't met the young chap and talked the matter over with him he seems to be a glutton for punishment.

But Wilson has his own ideas about what a championship means.

In his own heart he believes that he won the title from Mike O'Dowd fairly and squarely.

He is certain that he can beat O'Dowd again.

"I haven't even made a fair offer for a return match with the lightning chap when I was in physical condition to accept it and take the risk," he says.

"I don't want all the money, either. A fair split suits me. Let them make me an offer and see."

He regards Batfield as a tougher fighter for his style than O'Dowd. O'Dowd is very popular and has the public fooled, thinks Johnny.

No one knows better than Wilson himself that he won the title by a hairsplit and that it's hanging to him by a still thinner one.

GOLF AND BONDS. EVANS MIXES THEM

Amateur Champ Is Also Writing a Book for the Bugs.

BY RUSS SIMONTON
Chicago, Jan. 10.—"Between golf balls and bonds I'm a pretty mixed bird. Never was busier than in 1920, but in 1921 I'm going to be so 'up and at 'em' I won't have time to eat."

Chick Evans, the world's greatest amateur golfer, twisted one leg over the other and swang about in his swivel chair.

He was in a bond brokerage office. It's where Chick spends the winter months—while snow covers the golf links.

There is a heap of difference between Chick Evans, business man, and Chick Evans, sportsman.

Cherry on Links
On the golf links he tugs out in playing uniform—short trousers, half-way sleeves on his shirt, and a cap on the back of his head. He always has a cheery hello and a broad smile—a maybe kidding remark for golfers he passes on the course.

In his business office, where he says he is "away from golf on business," Chick is a neat but not gaily dressed. He looks the part he's playing—a regular business man. The one golf characteristic that sticks with him, where ever he is, is his pleasing smile and good nature.

And he isn't a bit swell-headed over the fact that his mantle piece isn't near big enough to hold his trophy cups.

He'll Keep Busy
"What are you going to do in 1921?" he was asked.

"Same as last year, I guess play golf and sell bonds." And Chick let his smile have full play.

"This is going to be the biggest golf year we've ever had. Last season more people played than ever before, and 1921 will bring out a still larger number."

"What do you think about the cost of golf?"

"There's the sticker. The high dues of golf clubs and country clubs have got to come down. I'm strong for that! It's a shame to keep lots of sportsmen out of the game with high dues."

Chummy Game
"Golf is becoming more of a national sport because the auto is handy to take folks to the links, and because the average American has a companion-ship."

And when Chick speaks of companionship he knows what he's talking about.

"Golf is a friendly game," says he. "You can't fight the chap you play a round with. Maybe you'll talk about scrapping—but you won't do it."

Evans wants to go to England this year and take a whirl at the British championship, but he can't.

"I'll be too busy," he explains. "I think America will have a strong team and I look to see Bobbie Jones, carry away the honors."

"I'd like to go out west this year and enter the Pacific Coast and southern tournaments, but their date's conflict with the middle west and eastern games, so I can't."

Of stocks and bonds, Evans had this to say:

"I don't know much about stocks. We don't deal in 'em. But the bond market is steady and I think we'll do well in 1921."

And then Chick sprung a little secret.

"I have a little venture of my own and they're just calling it 'Chick Evans' book.' I'm bringing out a book on golf."

"Couldn't find a name for it, so they're just calling it 'Chick Evans' book.' It took me two years to write it."

Then Chick wound up his chat with: "If every golfer sticks to his golf clubs no ought to have a happy 1921."

PHILLY SIDEWINDER IS ROLLING STOCK

Every time "Wild Bill" Donovan turns around he gets an offer for Eppa Jephtha Rixey, his six-foot college southpaw.

Medrow wants him.

And Donovan wants to trade him—that makes it look like a bargain.

But Donovan isn't blind just because he has been coaching a minor league team and only lately returned to the big league.

Rixey is a $25,000 man. He is considered one of the best lefties in the majors. He comes within an ace of greatness. With a better club than the Phillies back of him he might come into full bloom.

Rixey would make a first class attraction at the Polo Grounds.

Donovan needs a catcher mighty badly and some infield talent. He'll have his needs filled before he lets Rixey go.

The "Coney Reds," too, are making eyes at Donovan's offer. Morin has got some good training stock for the Philly manager to consider.

So it's pretty certain that the elongated sidwinder will roll into the Giant's or Red's camp before the frost is out of the ball park.

MEETS IN FARGO
The North Dakota Medical association will meet in Fargo, May 12 and 13, according to announcement made today. At this meeting there will be an attendance of between 150 and 200.

TRICKS HELP RECTOR.
London, Jan. 10.—Houdini tricks are performed by Rev. W. E. F. Boes of Colchester in his fight against spiritism. He allows himself to be handcuffed in a box and then frees himself.

COME ON!
Step right up, strong men! Walter Lincoln Travis of Brooklyn, wants to meet you in a test of strength. He claims he's the strongest man in the world. To prove it he posted $10,000 last October with the editor of Physical Culture magazine. No takers yet! Travis does not smoke, chew or drink. He eats huge quantities of candy and pastry.
